

Jon Kenzie

Four little words

Lately it comes back to these four little words
Darling you know that I've never said them when it comes to this you know I always fear the worst I like to live my life so careless

Sometimes these words don't know just where to belong
When my minds too loud for my thoughts to hear
I know I don't deserve to make you wait so long
When these are the days I know I will hold so dear

Just wait a little longer
Until I finished my song girl
Just wait a little longer
I still live in my own world

In order these letters will ring out eternally
While ambivalent sight is sharpening strife
To tumble these sounds is to shout out finality
Not to wander through life with age passing by

Now I know that I don't need a question mark
If I scribbled these shapes out on to the page
Would it fear less if I took it out from the dark?
There's no telling how long your patience will wait

Just wait a little longer
Until I finished my song girl
Just wait a little longer
I still live in my own world

Sometimes these words don't know where to belong
In my carelessness, in my finished song
When my thoughts are too loud for my heart to hear and know you don't deserve to pay so dear please wait, just a little bit longer

just wait a little longer
I've finished my song girl
Just wait a little longer
I'm still in my own world

Lately it comes back
to these four little words

Credits

from Sing A Little Higher, released October 22, 2013
Vocals & guitar - Jon Kenzie
Piano - Justin Shearn
Double Bass - Matt Owens
Kit - Eryl Roberts
Cello - Ben Cashel
Violins - Emma Sweeney