

Jon Kenzie

Take a seat

Don't rush if you're not coming
Don't shout words not worth whispering
You say it not for telling
Need it to start your mending

You left this place in the nick of time
Like a bird flies to separate from winter time
Do you hear the idea shivering as it stands outside
That maybe this time you don't need to pick a side

Come and take a seat next to me
There's still one thing in this world that's free
Come and take a seat next to me
I've been saving it for you
All of your life

We're seven more years older
Since we started to make it over
Comfy in our selves we were then
Now we find it hard in our own skin

We left this place in the nick of time
Like a bird flies to separate from winter time
Do you hear the idea shivering as it stands outside
That maybe this time you don't need to pick a side

Come and take a seat next to me
There's still one thing in this world that's free
Come and take a seat next to me
I've been saving it for you
Come and take a seat next to me
There's still one thing in this world that's free
Come and take a seat next to me
I've been saving it for you
All of your life